

Our Vision

We are a foundation established to support the National Cryptologic Museum in its effort to inform the public about the contribution made to the national security of the United States by the signals intelligence and information assurance services, and to commemorate the men and women who have participated in these important activities. Our objective is to support Museum endeavors and help build a new world-class institution.

We will assist the Museum with advisory support and with the acquisition and display of memorabilia and artifacts that explain the role played by cryptology in peace and war. We will also aid the Museum in facilitating research into now-unclassified materials about signals intelligence and information assurance.

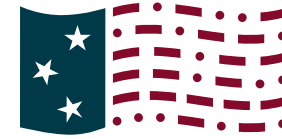

We will provide financial support to the Museum by seeking to attract both corporate and individual members to the Foundation. We will sponsor a variety of programs to expand and inform our membership and to increase interest and participation in the Museum and its development.

In all of our activities, we will proceed in accordance with the highest ethical standards and consistent with the requirements of a not-for-profit institution.

MEMBERSHIP
SYMPOSIUM

A Tribute to a Friend & Leader

Lt Gen Lincoln D. Faurer, former Chairman of the NCMF Board of Directors.

Gen Faurer served as NSA Director & CSS Chief from 1981-85. He received numerous honors throughout his career, and although he retired in 1985 after 35 years of USAF service, his contributions didn't end there. He consulted on national security issues and served on the boards of several organizations, including the NCMF's. "Linc" was a great friend and supporter of the NCM/NCMF, and he is deeply missed.

The NCMF has collected over $8,000 towards a Maryland student "Cyber Innovation" scholarship in Linc's honor. If you'd like to contribute, visit the In Memoriam Registry at www.cryptologicfoundation.org

Nancy Dillman was born and raised in Chicago, Illinois. She obtained a Bachelor's degree in History and Political Science from DePaul University and a Master's degree in International Relations from Loyola University. With a passion for public service, Ms. Dillman became an Operations Officer at the Central Intelligence Agency, specializing in denied area tradecraft techniques, along with counterintelligence (CI), counterproliferation (CP), and counterterrorism (CT). Her last overseas tour took place in Afghanistan from 2012-2013 where she handled sensitive CI and CT accounts. Having accomplished her goals at the Agency, Ms. Dillman looked for her next challenge. In February 2015 she became the owner and CEO of Rsignia, Inc., a diverse cybersecurity company currently focused on offensive social media operations and analytics. She and her husband, Bob, reside in Montgomery County, Maryland.

Robert L. Grenier is Chairman of ERG Partners, a financial advisory and consulting firm. He retired from CIA in 2006, following a highly decorated 27-year career in the CIA's Clandestine Service. Mr. Grenier served as Director of the CIA Counter-Terrorism Center (CTC) from 2004 to 2006, coordinated CIA activities in Iraq from 2002 to 2004 as the Iraq Mission Manager, and was the CIA Chief of Station in Islamabad, Pakistan before and after the 9/11 attacks. Earlier, Mr. Grenier was the deputy National Intelligence Officer for the Near East and South Asia, and also served as the CIA's chief of operational training. He was instrumental in organizing CIA's Counter-proliferation Division, serving as its first Chief of Operations.

Mr. Grenier received an AB Degree with Distinction in Philosophy from Dartmouth College, and later did graduate studies at the University of Virginia. He is now a life member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and speaks and writes frequently on foreign policy and intelligence issues.

David Rohde is an investigative reporter for Reuters. He served as a Reuters foreign affairs columnist from 2011 to 2013. He is a two-time Pulitzer Prize winner and a former reporter for the New York Times and Christian Science Monitor. His most recent book is "Beyond War: Reimagining America's Role and Ambitions in a New Middle East."
